

Scorpions

Scorpions are particularly resistant animals, either to cold, heat, hunger and even to ionizing radiations.

They have a great capacity for adaptation that allowed them to settle on all continents and in all habitats, including under the snow.

They are predators mainly insectivorous.

